the Diplomacy (Allan Calhamer's game) supplement of the Sunday Western Star-Post-Free Press, Vol 8, No 5, April 13, 1980

DIPPY is published by the Great Western Publishing Co & Whalebone Corset Works Unc, a.k.a. Jim Benes, 417 S Stough St, Hinsdale, Ill 60521. Game fee is $5 plus a continuing subscription to this rag at the rate of 5 issues per dollar.

ATTENTION EVERYONE! During our visit to the western provinces, we were urged to consider the operation of another game of Avalon-Hill's STOCK MARKET GAME in these pages. We have in the past operated such a game with mixed results. If we were to once again offer (at no charge) STOCK MARKET in the Sunday STAR, would you be interested in playing? Our decision on whether or not to run the game will depend on the response we receive to this query.

PARIS--WORLD IN GENERAL: When a man tells you he knows how to win with a country by allying with your country, and he allies with your country, AND he wins, you begin to wonder just what it was you were thinking of.

TURKISH END OF GAME STATEMENT--This was my first Diplomacy game anywhere. I was fortunate to have a solid ally such as Roscoe McPherrren. He was unfortunate in having me as an ally, in the sense that I was learning to deal with a tendency toward paranoia and a brief break-up between us caused a dramatic reversal of his fortunes. My thanks to Roscoe for always being a good ally, however.

As Russia began to decline in influence and England was sinking quietly into the sea, Italy became more open to alliance with Turkey. At that point, time was against us, although not decidedly so. As fate would have it, some critical NMRs began to turn the tide against us.

France and Germany came through with an offer of survival for Turkey and Russia if I would turn on Italy. I toyed with the idea, primarily due to some bad press he was receiving elsewhere. In the end, I decided against it, and determined to go down with my allies if need be.

The press in this game was fun for me, and I enjoyed the Turkish-French press war immensely. My thanks to Oaklyn, McPherrren, Sergeant, McLendon and Ledder for an enjoyable and replacement-free game.

HINSDALE--And my thanks to all of you too. We certainly hope you all had fun. A big Congratulations to Steve McLendon, who now is eligible for a "free" game in DIPPY--just let us know if you want to play Steve. Your game fee is paid, but you'll have to continue subscribing. And, again, thanks to you all...

STAR notable ALAN PETERS tells our photogs he got in shape to stop bullies from, "Kicking sand in my face. Now, I just sit on theirs! ha ha ha" The portly librarian admits however, "I haven't seen anything below my breasts in years."

"Hey everybody, it's me, Mr. Entertainment, JERRY FARBER! I'll be headlining the entertainment, natch, at the DAVE EANET wedding and funeral, all rolled into one. Get it? Wedding & funeral? Great stuff. ha ha ha Anyway, let me try some of my stuff on you. Essee loved it. Laughed so hard her wig fell off!

What did they hear coming from inside the MOVE headquarters in Philly just as the big bomb was about to hit? 'I said Bud Light!' Get it? Ever see those Bud commercials? Bud Light?

ATTENTION, EVERYONE
There have been several requests that we once again operate a version of Avalon-Hill's STOCK MARKET GAME in these pages.

We're willing, if you're interested. Please let us know if you'd like to play. See K you.

DOU'T FORGET: the Italian Feast will be held on Saturday evening, May 31st at the Wiloy-Bones estate in Hinsdale. All STAR readers will be welcome to attend and pitch in making for the feast. So far, the roster is as follows: Chico Kosin (pizza), Andi Wiley (spaghettii), Jim Benes (veal parmigiano), the George Hines family, Rich Mylak, Larry Lehman, Carol & Adam Regulski (anti-pasto) and Bob Saigh (bread). If you plan on attending, please let us know now.

RADIO TID BIT: As White Sox colorcaster Rich King was explaining to Bob & Betty Sanders that he had been raised in Pilson near Sox Park, his sidekick, Joe McCennell, exclaimed: "Rich, don't point. You're on radio."

If you didn't read it here, it didn't happen...

QUOTABLE QUOTE: "Putting aside normal trials and tribulations of a homeowner, my general opinion is that Bolingbrook is not a very desirable community in which to live. People here are not quite illiterate, but they certainly are trying..." --new Bolingbrook home owner Larry Lehman...

CALDENAR: April 13-19 is National Numb Week, highlighted by the wedding day of Scott Slonim & Nancy Cowger (19th) and the annual return of the buzzards to Cleveland (18th).. FIVE YEARS AGO IN THE STAR, it was revealed that Japan had actually attacked the US mainland during World War II. In a little-known fact about the Great War, the STAR detailed how Japan launched 9300 bomb-laden balloons against the US. Only about 300 of the balloons were recovered, most in the western US, but some as far East as Michigan. The bombing campaign claimed only 6 lives however, in Lake County, Ore. The STAR also detailed the 1975 winter vacation of Andi Wiley and Jim Benes to Acapulco, Mexico. Formal attire consisted of blue jeans, and on the first night there, Bones and Dale McCarron waded into the Pacific and then dined at Blackbeard's. The STAR reported that on the return trip to Chicago, Ms Wiley "had to be dragged kicking and screaming aboard the return flight...yelling she was being kidnapped by a Czech agent..."

In sports, Reading at 5-2 and Cedar Rapids at 7-2 were atop their respective divisions in the TBA (PTG)...

By Ralph Guano, STAR Travel Editor
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF--Well, Chico was right: San Francisco is a marvelous city. It's so good, in fact, that Jim Benes put it right up there with Chicago and Denver on his list of most-livable cities of America.

The Golden Gate city is civilized (now, at least: it wasn't in the 19th Century), cosmopolitan, and continental. And Andi Wiley and Jim Benes were treated last week to a remarkable tour of the area by former SF tour guide Tom Eng and by Chuck & Joan Bodord of nearby Sunnyvale.

With any luck at all, we hope to print photos of the trip in next week's STAR.

Highlights of the trip:

--Chinatown, where Eng took Bones to a small Chinese diner where Eng's father had eaten in 1938. It was here that Benes learned to eat with chopsticks (the alternative was starvation). Food was prepared in the first floor kitchen and sent up to the third floor dining area in a dumb waiter. (See "SF," Page 2) fed you. Wow!

We got LETTERS

Recently, we have received in the mail a newsletter/ballot from our newly elected Commissioner. In this letter, the Commissioner admits to freely breaking the rules of the TBA as they have become established through careful consideration of the owners through the years. To wit:

The Hinsdale franchise has changed owners without a vote by the league owners, which is clearly in violation of the proper procedures as established by the league.

The Commissioner has extended the season, which is not possible without the league's consent.

The Commissioner has failed to impose the penalty prescribed in the league's bylaws for those teams failing to complete the league's assigned schedule by the deadline duly established by the league.

The ballot also contains a proposal for returning the dictatorial powers to the Commissioner's office. I maintain that the present Commissioner is acting as a dictator without our consent. I therefore propose the following:

1. The ownership of the Hinsdale franchise should be declared vacant until such time as the question of that franchise's ownership is put before the owners for a vote, as required by TBA rules.

2. Any games played or submitted to the Statistician's office after the season's deadline be declared null and void for the purposes of determining a either draft status or final position in the league for this season.

3. The draft should be suspended until such time as the proper penalties have been assigned to the clubs who failed to complete their schedules by the due date, as provided for in the TBA bylaws.

4. John McArdle should be impeached for his utter disregard of the rules of the TBA, and for his usurping of authority not given him by his office.

--the wine country, where Benes bought out a small winery after tasting their Riesling.

--the Cannery and Ghiradelli Square, exciting and interesting options to the famed Fisherman's Wharf, which seemed over-commercial and too crowded.

--the California Division of Motor Vehicles office in Daly City, where Eng and Benes spent a few hours when Eng discovered that he'd mislaid his driver's license (best bet is that the Golden State never issued him one).

--the cable cars, which should be a part of every city, whether there are hills for them to climb or not.

--the Stanford Industrial Park, where both the Bedords work. Anyone who ever sees what it's like there will consider his own working conditions disgraceful.

--the dirigible hangar in Sunnyvale, where America's dirigibles were housed in the 1920s.

--Dim Sum, the Chinese brunch everyone had on Easter Sunday. Does anybody have a recipe for those delicious pork buns?

--the Fairmont Hotel, high atop knob hill where Wiley and Benes spent two nights courtesy of the ABA. To show you how expensive and exclusive it was, consider this: a single bottle of Coors beer cost $2.25 at the bar there. $2.40 ~~much~~ bought a full meal in Chinatown.

To sum up, if you're considering a San Fran trip...do it!

BASEBALL

By Irving Washington

As baseball's real opening day approaches, many members of the Transcontinental Baseball League (APBA) are wondering whether the circuit will be revived. The TBL, being run by one of the following: Rich Mylak, Phil Kosin, Virgil Wilson; finished about half of its schedule last year, and Mr Mylak is quoted as saying that the second part of the schedule will be finished this year. Mylak said to look for something in the mail from him soon.

Meanwhile, because of the poor record of the TBL, several other game players, some in the TBL and some not, are organizing a new league. Details are sketchy, but it's believed that the new circuit will have 6 or 7 members, and that it will incorporate several new ideas.

As these efforts stall or go forward, the Winter League is wrapping up another successful campaign. The latest Standings:
